Ms. Lauren Wolfe is the director of The Women Media Center’s Women Under Siege project, a journalism initiative that investigates how rape and other forms of sexualized violence are used as tools in genocide and conflict throughout the 20th century and into the 21st. Ms. Wolfe is an award-winning journalist who has written for numerous publications including The Atlantic, The Nation, and The New York Times. She is also a columnist at Foreign Policy magazine and on the advisory committee of the International Campaign to Stop Rape & Gender Violence in Conflict. Ms. Wolfe has reported from the DRC covering the plight of women and the country’s ongoing violence for Foreign Policy, The Guardian, The Atlantic, and WMC Women Under Siege.

Dr. Subha Xavier is assistant professor (Ph.D. in French Literature, University of Wisconsin-Madison) of French and Francophone literature at Emory University’s Department of French and Italian. She is a scholar of migration studies with a specialization in Sub-Saharan Africa, Asia and the Caribbean. Professor Xavier’s first book, The Migrant Text: Making and Marketing a Global French Literature (McGill-Queen’s University Press, 2016) brings together a corpus of recent novels by immigrants to France and Quebec, carving out a new space for discussing the dynamics of global literature today. She is currently at work on a book manuscript on Sino-French literary exchanges and translation, as well as on a new project on human rights and literature in the DRC.

Dr. Sita Ranchod-Nilsson is the director of Emory University’s Institute for Developing Nations (IDN).
